

Jack Gives Back

Jack is a dog. And like other dogs, he doesn't know much about history or science. But he has figured out tithing. In fact, he understands the principle of tithing better than many humans, especially very young humans, who often resent having to give up some of their birthday money when the offering plate comes by. In his first book Jack explains, in a way any child can understand, the importance of giving back to God. The simple words and charming photos will help you pass on to your children the same principles of stewardship that you've learned to live by.
